

BRITISH FACE GRAVE CRISIS IN LIBYA

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE
I believe the poet said something that sounded like "The melon cholic days have come—the sweetest of the year," or perhaps it was "The melancholic days have come, the saddest of the year."

Anyway, what I am trying to say is that as I was walking along Court Street, I saw some of the largest watermelons I have ever seen temptingly reposing in Mike Liscandro's show window. They came from Florida.

After taking a second look and convincing myself that they really were watermelons, I walked inside and asked to have one weighed. Fred Short did the weighing. It tipped the scales at 43 pounds and was 26 inches in length—which is a dog-gone big melon in any language.

I believe that a glowing example of the lasting qualities of tires is clearly demonstrated at the Fire Department where one piece of equipment—the ladder truck—is using tires that are 15 years old, and in which 60 pounds of pressure is carried. The tubes, I understand, are the same age.

Then the solid rubber tires on the 29 year old pumper have been in use about 20 years, and are still going strong and appear good for many years.

On the newer pumper, which was purchased in 1925, the big pneumatic tires were placed on the truck in 1933, which makes them a little matter of nine years old, and they are still in excellent condition with apparently nine additional years of service in them.

It is true that none of these tires have been run a thousand miles, but it is also true that they are all gray-beards in age.

Anyway they show how long tires will last if they are cared for and not run to death.

Anyone who stands on a busy street corner in our Washington C. H. business district, will note that there is an increasing disregard of traffic lights, especially by pedestrians. Some people act as though the lights were not meant for them. They seem to forget that these lights were placed at busy intersections for protection of pedestrians, motorists, people on bicycles and the occasional horse drawn vehicle, alike.

One city recently passed a common sense pedestrian protection ordinance designed to remind the people afoot to walk carefully in traffic. It is a simple ordinance because it contains only three major rules couched in simple language. The three rules admonish:

To stop and look both ways before stepping from the curb or other places of safety, into the street;

To wait on cross walks for the green light before starting across the street.

If a pedestrian is caught violating these three rules he or she is ticketed just as motorists are ticketed for traffic violations.

SUGAR RATION UNCHANGED BUT STAMP VALUE IS

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(P)—The value of sugar stamps 5 and 6 has been increased to two pounds each, but each stamp will cover four weeks instead of two, so the weekly ration for each consumer will remain at a half pound.

Stamp No. 4, now valid for the purchase of a pound, will expire at midnight June 27, the office of price administration announced. No. 5, good for two pounds, may be used at any time up to July 26, and No. 6 will then be valid until August 22.

CANADIANS WITH YANKS IN DEFENSE OF ALASKA

VICTORIA, B. C., June 18.—(P)—Squadrons of the Royal Canadian Air Force are operating with United States forces in Alaska, it became known last night as Lieut. Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of the Canadian general staff, assumed temporary command of Canada's Pacific forces. Canadian anti-aircraft units are also on duty in Alaska.

TWO QUESTIONS ABOUT GERMANS AWAIT ANSWERS

Where Will Hitler Strike Next? . . . Where Is Bulk Of Nazi Air Force?

TWO ARE BOUND TOGETHER

Theory Is That Planes and Oil Are Being Saved for Crucial Offense

By BILL BONI
(Wide World News Service)

NEW YORK, June 18.—(P)—As the Russian-German war nears the end of its first year, two questions are uppermost in the minds of most observers:

When will the Nazis strike with the full weight of their offensive, which has been threatened since early spring?

Where is the bulk of the Nazi air force?

It is quite possible that the answers to these two questions are bound up together; that the answer to the second automatically will supply the reply to the first.

The records of Nazi military conquest since September, 1939, prove without room for argument that the high command makes no major military undertaking without full-scale support from the air force.

It was in Poland, in Norway, in the low countries and France, in the Balkans—and it was so on June 22, 1941, when the Nazi armies began their devastating sweep into Russia which did not halt until it had been met by the combined force of the powerful Soviet counter-offensive and the numbing cold of the Russian winter.

Yet since the late fall of 1941, the German air force has not been engaged in any mass operations as the Allies have come to know them.

True, the Nazis have had to spread their air strength over

CUSHION IS SOUGHT FOR PRICE CEILINGS

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(P)—The administration today renewed efforts to obtain legislation permitting payment of government subsidies to keep price control ceilings intact in the face of rising production and transportation costs.

Senator Brown (D-Mich) said he would confer with Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones next week on a bill designed to permit the government to help finance the production and distribution of certain vital commodities, such as sugar, gasoline, and coal, that otherwise could not be sold in some areas at a profit.

KILLED BY FLAG POLE

ALLIANCE, June 18.—(P)—Mrs. Herta Ewing, 32, of nearby Sebring was injured fatally yesterday when a flagpole to which she attached a washline fell and struck her on the head.

Stamp No. 4, now valid for the purchase of a pound, will expire at midnight June 27, the office of price administration announced. No. 5, good for two pounds, may be used at any time up to July 26, and No. 6 will then be valid until August 22.

WPB METHODS AND MEN SCORED

Senate's Probers Demand Changes—Dollar-a-year Men Criticized Harshly

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(P)—

A demand for changes in men and methods of the War Production Board came today from Chairman Truman (D., Mo.) of the special Senate committee investigating national defense as he issued a report criticizing what the committee termed "damaging delay" in the conversion of major civilian industries to war purposes.

The WPB has not fully measured up to this responsibility," Hruiman said in statement.

He went on to say that "fulfillment of this responsibility will require a change in both the organization and personnel of some branches and divisions in the WPB."

The 32-page printed report upheld part of the charges made against WPB by Robert P. Guthrie, who resigned March 14 from the WPB executive staff with a protest that some dollar-a-year men had impeded the war production program because of private interests.

Edgar Bergen Gets More Than Company President

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—(P)—

Edgar Bergen, whose lively "dumby" friend, Charlie McCarthy, has been pleading for an increase in a 75 cents a week allowance, was paid $282,000 for his radio work in 1941 by Standard Brands, Inc.

Bergen's income was almost four times the payment made by the company to its former president and present chairman, Thomas L. Smith, who received $75,000, additional annual reports filed with the securities and exchange commission revealed today.

Many of the late reports showed executives of firms now engaged in war production were given substantial increases last year. Included in this group were Charles Balough, president, treasurer, general manager of The Hercules Motor Corporation, Canton, Ohio, who received $60,000, including $36,000 as bonus or share in profits, a $21,000 increase over his 1940 income, and Parker F. Williams, president of the Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Corporation, who jumped from $21,034 in 1940 to $46,390 last year.

American Bombers Operating with Russian Air Force as Defenders Repulse Nazi Assaults on Gateway to Oil Field in Furious Fighting

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, June 18.—(P)—With point-blank artillery fire and infantrymen standing against tanked waves of attackers, Red army and navy defense forces have beaten back every German attempt to smash through the shell-scarred fortifications that guard Sevastopol and its cliff-lined roadstead. Pravda reported today in dispatches from the front.

The four-motorized craft were described as "similar to those which landed in Turkey following a raid on Rumanian oil fields" by an American squadron last week. It was not stated whether their crews were British, American or Russian.

(Suggesting an Axis fishing expedition for information via neutral Sweden was the fact that the Berlin radio implied last Friday that the craft which landed in Turkey had operated at Sevastopol's defense ring and had split the British Libyan armies into two parts.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters said the German siege armies storming Sevastopol, the last big Soviet stronghold in the Crimea, had captured Fort Gorky and driven within two miles of the harbor entrance.

The communists described Fort Gorky as "the most modern and strongest bastion of the whole fortress."

Besides capturing Fort Gorky in the main fortifications north of the city, the Axis assault forces also drove back stubborn Red Army troops on the southern fortifications, the Hitler command said.

The Nazis claim of having knifed into Sevastopol's ring of fortifications was unconfirmed elsewhere, the Russians declaring they had beaten off a series of savage new attacks.

British Withdrawing

In the Libyan desert struggle, British Imperial headquarters acknowledged that British troops had withdrawn from the two key defense points at Sidi Rezegh and El Adem.

The German high command said the British forces had been split into two parts.

A Nazi communiqué said strong German and Italian tank formations were pursuing the east-bound British column, which was described as "fleeting" toward Bardia, 15 miles from the Egyptian frontier.

The communists asserted that several desert forts on the southern perimeter of Tobruk's defenses had been captured.

Sidi Rezegh is 25 miles southeast of Tobruk and 50 miles from the Egyptian frontier; El Adem is 18 miles due south of Tobruk.

An Italian war bulletin asserted that aerial reconnaissance disclosed the British were beginning a general withdrawal toward the Egyptian frontier.

It Has Been Worse

Last year, the British withstood eight months of violent siege at the Mediterranean coastal fortress until relieved by a new expeditionary force striking out of Egypt.

Despite Axis armored supremacy, the British declared they still maintained superiority in the air.

The setback at two vital points on the half-moon front apparently meant that the British were now falling back on Tobruk's main defense works, where British Tommies, Australians, New Zealanders and Indian troops made history with their stand against Axis siege armies last year.

Russians Holding

In the Soviet campaign, Russia's armies beat off a series of furious new assaults on the bloody plains and heights around Sevastopol and shattered tanked German infantry attacks on the Kharkov front amid indications that the Nazi war machine was losing some of its knockout punch.

Soviet front-line dispatches said hundreds of German dead and burned-out tanks littered the slopes before Sevastopol.

Court of Appeals Blocks Recall Election Here

USO ENDORSED BY 'HOME BOYS' NOW IN SERVICE

Letters Are Evidence That They are Keeping Eye on Campaign Here

The young men who have gone from Washington C. H. and Fayette County into the country's armed forces are keeping an eye on the progress of the USO campaign, both here and throughout the country, letters written by several of them to Walter Patton, the campaign publicity man, attest.

Of the replies to the more than a score of questionnaire-letters sent to men in all branches of the service, everyone is an endorsement of the USO.

Richard Cockerill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cockerill, who resigned his place on the Washington C. H. High School faculty last spring to go into the service, writes from Camp Barkley:

"Yes, I have visited the USO clubs in Abilene. There are three clubs there and they are frequented regularly by the Camp Barkley men. Their dances are well attended and every Friday night the USO girls come here to the Camp Barkley club house for a free dance. The personnel is very cooperative and always willingly lend a helping hand to soldiers in a strange community. Dances, stationery, shower bath, reading materials and recreation rooms are all free at the USO."

"I think that their work is appreciated by the soldiers at Camp Barkley and that the folks at home should support it with their dollars."

Making an inquiry of his own, George L. Gossard, wrote his son Stewart, now at Cudahy Field, Wis., in the Army Air Corps, asking him what he and the other soldiers at the field thought of the USO. He received an answer by return mail which read in part:

"You asked about the USO. If anybody could treat you any better in this town, I'd like to see them try it. They feed us and furnish transportation and theatre and dance tickets, get dates for you, arrange dinner parties and boat trips, in fact anything you would want. You tell them to kick through with all they can on their drive in Fayette Co. The boys here really appreciate it."

Leaders of the campaign consider Gossard's letter significant because it was written to his father, to whom he would feel free to express his views. His endorsement is regarded as one of the best evidences of the value of the USO.

PIPE LINE ACROSS FLORIDA TO BE LAID BY UNCLE SAM

WASHINGTON, June 18—(AP)—Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes announced today approval of plans for the construction of an 8-inch petroleum products pipe line across northern Florida, to help supply the Atlantic coastal areas as far north as Norfolk, Va.

The project was proposed by the American Liberty Pipe Line Company, Dallas, Tex., to be built with second-hand pipe excavated in Texas.

Mr. Virgil Garringer suffered a badly sprained left ankle, in a fall at his home. He was given treatment and X-rayed at the office of Dr. J. H. Persinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cramer, and two children, of Bloomingburg, are moving into the Ray Brandenburg property on McKinley Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Campbell, of Xenia, have named their son, born May 23, Gregory. Mrs. Campbell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. O. East, of Millwood, N. Y.

Lucille Parrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Parrett, underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils in the office of Dr. N. M. Reiff, Thursday morning.

Mr. James Wackman, who has been at the Martinsville, Ind., health resort for the past ten days, taking special treatment, has returned to his home here, greatly improved.

The action filed was in the nature of a mandamus action to compel the councilmen to call an election on the question of removal of the two councilmen, after formal request had been filed with council to call such an election.

The petition recites that three members of council voted at successive sessions, against calling such election, and that neither Duff nor Ducey resigned.

The removal of Duff and Ducey was sought as a result of S. A. Murry being seated to fill the unexpired term of Ottice Stookey, after Stookey had resigned, last December.

At that time Murry, who had November, and whose term was been defeated for reelection in January 1, resigned and James Ireland was named councilman to fill the short time remaining of Murry's term.

Then a recall petition was circulated, a large number of names obtained, the petition presented to the Board of Elections and council was notified by the Board of Elections to call an admission only 75¢.

JEFFERSONVILLE PLANS DEFENSE FROM AIR RAIDS

Robert S. Harper's Second Novel Based on History and Adventure

Old friends of Robert S. (Bob) Harper, who knew him as a "cub" reporter on the old Washington C. H. Herald 20 years ago, today are looking forward to reading his second and latest book "The Road to Baltimore," which has just been released by his publishers, The M. S. Mill Co., at $2 per copy.

Harper, recently elevated to the position of managing editor of the Ohio State Journal, Columbus, began his journalistic and writing career in Washington C. H. while still in high school. Unbound energy and dogged determination to make use of his capabilities have brought him success in both while still young enough to enjoy it.

Born in a farm tenant house just north of Jeffersonville, one of the three children (two girls and a boy) of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harper, he lived most of his life in Washington C. H. until he went to work on the Columbus Dispatch in 1924. Later he worked on the Journal and the New York Times before returning to the Journal where he rose from the copy desk, to telegraph editor, to city editor, to news editor and finally to managing editor.

He and Mrs. Harper and their son Bobby come here to visit his mother and Mrs. Harper's aunt, Mrs. Lucy Holmes almost every week. While their stays are not often more than a few hours, they do serve to keep up old friendships.

A little more than a year ago, his first novel, "Trumpet in the Wilderness" was published and since has run through several editions. It was a serious historic novel based on the pioneering and settlement of Ohio with Perry's Battle of Lake Erie as the climax.

His second book, "The Road to Baltimore," also is developed on early American history but he has said himself that it does not have, nor is it intended to have, the polish, finesse, detail and serious intent of his first novel, on which he spent several years historical research to create an authentic background.

"The Road to Baltimore" is a historical thriller, a quickly read, lightly written, historical-adventure-romance, packed to the last page with plot and action.

The girl in crinoline who falls in love with Beau Stark is the niece of Henry Clay, which gives Mr. Harper opportunity of weaving Clay himself, in a very human manner, into the story. Most of the novel is written as a stage-coach journey along the road from Wheeling to Baltimore. Beau, who has just returned from the Texan revolution where he fought under Houston, finds that his brother, David, has mysteriously disappeared, with his Conestoga wagon filled with merchandise for his father's store, and was last seen on the National Road at a point near Baltimore.

Beau sets out, in a stage coach traveling the National Road, to find traces of his brother, and finds as his companions Henry Clay, his niece, Twill, her fiance, George Carvajal (a "merchant prince") and three cattlemen from Columbus, Ohio. Beau feels an instinctive dislike for Carvajal, which becomes an active hate as he discovers at various stages of the journey that Carvajal is mixed up in David's disappearance and is the leader of a gang of highwaymen who fatten their purses by holding up and robbing not only wagons and stage coaches, but the Pony Express. When the stage coach carrying Beau and Henry Clay's party is held up, Beau solves the mystery of his brother's disappearance and exposes Carvajal.

The novel is not heavy with action, but it is well written and the characters are well developed. The story is well told and the characters are well drawn. The book is a good read and I would recommend it to anyone who enjoys historical fiction.

historical detail; the flavor of history serves as spice in a plot where incident includes highwaymen, and Henry Clay winning at poker. The brightest spot in the cast of characters is Redding Bunting, the stagecoach driver, an old friend of Beau's, whose theme song is "No! No! I'll never married be, but love and love and yea be free . . ."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that you are overworking.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

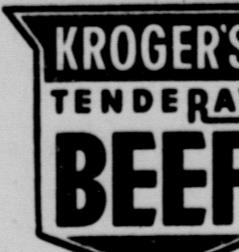

If you take 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatism, pains, leg pains, loss of power, etc., getting worse and worse, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

DAD'S THOUGHTS

Here in Fayette County as well as all over the country there will be a considerable to-do about Father's Day and among the many fathers who will be remembered by loving sons and daughters there will be one special group who will be especially proud because they have sons in Australia, in Africa, in Iceland and in other strange ports and places that were nothing more than names to most of us just a few months ago.

There will be fathers of sons in the navy, in the army and in the air corps, boys who are preparing themselves in training camps in this country for none of us know what fate. These fathers are equally proud.

Somewhat this seems to be a little different kind of Father's Day—one which finds you as a Dad-remembering more than you are remembered. You will remember the kid who skinned his knees trying out his first roller skates, the kid who came home with a black eye when he tangled with some other lad, the kid who was proud of his Boy Scout uniform, the kid who held up the telephone for an hour talking nonsense to some girl and the kid who sometimes came to you for some man-to-man advice. Sure, Dad, you'll get your share of attention and gifts, neckties, pipes, cigars and whatnot. You'll be pleased with these little kindnesses, but you'll be wishing you were 20 years younger so that you could say to that boy somewhere out yonder—"Move over son, I'll spell you for awhile". We know you would like to take this boy of yours—maybe the boy now under Doug MacArthur in Australia—and tell him how things were with you under Black Jack Pershing in France. You'd like to sit with the boy at chow and say, "It was on a night just like this when we got ready to go into the Argonne. There is nothing to be afraid of, kid. Just remember that if your number is up it wouldn't make any difference if you were home in bed."

You'd like to say all those things, and more—give the kid advice and a pat on the back—but you can't. You're the most inarticulate sort of a guy there is. You're the big kid on the edge of the lot who wants to get into the game and play everlasting outfielder if they'd let him—but he's too old and he knows he doesn't belong. You know just exactly what's going to happen, but you don't dare open your mouth in warning for fear you'll be called an old spoilsport. You know because you went through it; but you know too that a lesson learned the hard way is a lesson learned forever.

Maybe that's why we have Father's

Today's Horoscope

A charming, interesting personality is possessed by the person celebrating a birthday today. You should, however, cultivate a more positive attitude toward life. Don't let obstacles deter you. Your fortunes will be good during the coming year if you will avoid speculation and excessive pleasure and merry-making. Some disappointment in love or friendship threatens you during this time. Born on this date a child will be very romantic, emotional and generous, so that unscrupulous persons posing as friends may cause sorrow and loss. Imposition and extravagance must be guarded against. Business abilities will be excellent.

Day. It's sort of a way for youngsters to say they know the Old Man isn't fooling a bit, that they know he's touched to the quick by all these same neckties and pipes—but it's the only way they have of saying the things they want to say and the only day on which you'll let them get away with it.

Washington, according to Secretary Harry Walker of the Maryland Retail Grocers' Organization, following a visit to the national capital, "is the only lunatic asylum" he knows of "that's run by its own inmates."

If, by its own inmates, Harry refers to the burg's permanent citizenry, he does 'em an injustice, at that. Heavens above!—they don't run the place. It's run by congressionally elected lunatics from all over the country. Even as lunatics, locally they're totally irresponsible. A ward alderman in the town of Podunk is answerable to the voters who choose him. But suppose Washingtonians have a legitimate holler on the sort of government their municipal council's dishing out to 'em. Why, they've got to do their yowling all the way from Seattle to Portland (Me.) and from there on down to Miami, and thence westward to San Diego, and hundreds of intermediate lateral, perpendicular and diagonal points. A fat chance they stand of getting any unification, on such a basis, relative to the District of Columbia!

A few congressmen are uneasy. They're afraid that, while legislating here, they may catch some of the germs. Generally, though, they're willing to take their chances with cholera, typhus and associated contagions—if the epidemic gets bad enough they can beat it for home and healthier heretofore.

Some of the disagreement is serious.

There are rubber-ites who contend that the whole rubber scare is phooey—that we've plenty of rubber if we conserve it. The gas shortage has been widely pooh-pooh'd. Possibly all that's part of the exaggeration. It continues, pretty swift ones, maybe in Washington, though.

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

usually, Washington, already overburdened, has approximately doubled in a matter of months. The census doesn't fully show it, because the growth has been so rapid that the census couldn't keep up.

Now, believe me, the situation's horrible.

To say that folk live in shacks doesn't express it. They live several families in a shack. They haven't toilet accommodations—not only no baths; no anything else.

The health authorities are scared.

But they can't dictate. They have to appeal to congress—and congress, as previously remarked, is as far away from Seattle, Portland (Me.), Miami, San Diego et cetera. And what do they care about the District of Columbia!

A few congressmen are uneasy. They're afraid that, while legislating here, they may catch some of the germs. Generally, though, they're willing to take their chances with cholera, typhus and associated contagions—if the epidemic gets bad enough they can beat it for home and healthier heretofore.

The thing was simplicity itself in 1914-18.

The supposedly informative offices now are the limit. In fact, they're impossible.

The more you investigate, the less you know.

SYNOPSIS
DIAN WESTON, attractive Ardendale girl, is jilted, and her aunt, MISS MARTHA WESTON, tries to persuade her to marry JEROME CARR, a local banker. Dian happens to meet BILL ROLLINS, a New York artist.

YESTERDAY: Dian discovers that Bill, too, has just been jilted.

CHAPTER FIVE

"STILL—straight ahead?" said Bill.

"Yes, until we come to where a dirt road turns off," Dian replied. Then she laughed softly. "This seems to be one of those rare occasions when Jilt meets Jilt—or words to that effect."

"It does, at that," said Bill. "And do you know, I'm darned glad you didn't hit some other man with your shoe. I needed you and this adventure to sort of pull me together."

"I'm glad, too," said Dian. "Funny, my meeting an artist just when I've been wondering if I could sell some of my grandfather's paintings."

"You mean he was an artist?"

"That," said Dian, "is a matter of opinion. Anyway, if you're not too rushed to get back to New York, maybe you'll have a look at them."

"I don't seem to be in such a big hurry any more," said Bill. "In fact—I'm beginning to like it around here."

"Then why not come in when we get to the house and let me give you some coffee and a bite to eat? I'd like to make up for the hospitality you didn't get from Claire."

"I'd like that," said Bill. "It sounds darned cozy." He chuckled. "I'm really enjoying myself. Funny, isn't it, being jilted and still able to enjoy oneself?"

"Funny—and nice," said Dian.

"Shows the stuff we're made of," said Bill.

Dian glanced back at them. She saw a car drawing nearer—a car that was of the sedan order.

"Goodness gracious!" she exclaimed. "I believe that's Aunt Martha. Hurry! I don't want to be interfered with, now I've gone this far. I can face things better with the spirit of Grandfather Weston to back me up."

Bill gave the car more gas. "Do you know what all this reminds me of?" he asked. "I mean your hitting me—both of us being jilted—all that?"

"No, I don't," Dian admitted. "What does it remind you of?"

"I was in pigtails. He thinks he wants to marry me, but I think he'd be a better husband for my aunt."

"What does she think about it?"

"She doesn't agree with me. She keeps after me to marry him. That's one of the reasons I wanted to get away." Dian again glanced behind them. "Oh, Bill, hurry!" she cried. "I do believe that is Miss Aggie's sedan. She took Aunt Martha to a meeting, and—"

"She knows where you are going?" Bill inquired.

"Yes, I left a note," said Dian. "I had to. I couldn't go off without leaving something behind. Aunt Martha and Jerome would have the sheriff and a posse out searching for me."

"What did you say in the note?"

"Nothing but a few words about how I wanted to get off by myself to think," said Dian. "She knows how I used to go out to the farm when I was upset. Only I had Grandfather Weston."

"Maybe I'll tell a writer about it when I get back to New York," Bill said. "And get a contract to illustrate the yarn he writes." He again glanced at Dian. "I'd insist upon one thing, however."

"What's that?"

"That he make his heroine look just like you."

"Thank you," said Dian. "That's an awfully nice thing to say."

"And sincere, too," said Bill. Then, suddenly, "Say, isn't it clouding up?"

"I believe it is," said Dian. "The sun's disappeared altogether."

"A quick thunderstorm would add to the story," said Bill. "Only an open car's not so good in a downpour."

"We can make shelter, if you hurry."

"Then here goes!" The car sped on. "They'll be coming out to look for you, won't they?"

"Probably. My Aunt Martha and Jerome—no doubt."

"Another character for the story. Who's Jerome?"

"He's the town banker," said Dian. "I've known him ever since."

Bill gave the roadster still more gas.

It sped off into the distance like a sleek, well-trained animal.

But the people in the sedan behind Dian and Bill were not Miss Martha Weston and Miss Aggie. They were still back in Ardendale, energetically knitting socks and sweaters and helmets for the Royal Air Force—knitting and discussing whether or not the meeting should come to an end because of the threatening storm.

The people in the sedan were Claire Lester and Paul Peters.

And they were eloping.

Claire, red-haired, green-eyed, slender and breath-takingly lovely;

"He's the town banker," said Dian. "I've known him ever since."

Interesting Papers Presented at Mission Society

The Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church held its monthly meeting in the church parlor Wednesday with the president, Mrs. A. B. Murray in charge.

In the absence of the pianist and her assistant, Mrs. S. A. Dewey presided at the piano, and called the meeting to order with the playing of a hymn.

Mrs. Murray opened the meeting with the reading of a lovely poem, and having all sing the hymn "Have Thine Own Way, Lord".

The secretary, Miss May Duffee, read the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Hershey gave her report.

The offering was received, Mrs. A. F. Hopkins giving the offertory prayer.

Miss Jane Landrum, beautiful soprano, favored with a lovely song, "Let Not Your Heart be Troubled." She was accompanied on the piano by her teacher, Mrs. Amanda Paxson.

The visiting committee reported 44 calls made during the month. Mrs. Harry Springer gave a report on the overseas work and stated the boxes would be sent shortly.

Mrs. Murray announced that a recital would be given at the church Thursday evening under the direction of Mrs. O. D. Farquhar. Mrs. Murray requested that the officers meet with her at the close of the meeting to arrange for the Missionary Tea to be held in July.

Mrs. C. H. Thoroman acted as leader for the afternoon and had charge of the devotionals and program. She opened the devotionals with prayer and all read in unison the 46th Psalm. She then read from the scriptures.

The subject for study was "The Philippines" and "The West Indies", two subjects very much before the public at the present time.

"Islands of the Pacific" was a very interesting paper by Mrs. Sprenger. She stated in part: The Philippines came under the rule of the United States in 1898. There has been a complete reformation and transformation in the ensuing years, cleanliness and health being among the great advantages gained and adding to the stature of the natives. In the Hawaiian Islands the first missionaries came from New England in 1820. Such fine schools were established there that in the early days of California and during the gold rush of 1849 many from that state attended schools in Hawaii.

Miss Emma Jackson read the names from the Year Book of Prayer and asked prayers for all of the missionaries in the foreign countries.

A hymn was sung, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." "Modern Missions in Ancient America" was a very fine paper prepared by Mrs. M. K. Evans and in her absence read by Mrs. Omar Schwartz. Quoting from the paper: "The West Indies, the first land visited by Columbus, contains 95,000 square miles. Population is 2-3 white, 1-3 Negro. One of the greatest needs of the islands is Christian literature and Christians must not only speak of Christian life but must lead the life."

The meeting was closed with all giving the Mispat benediction.

Dainty refreshments were served in the dining room. Vases of lovely flowers were used in decoration and 30 members were present.

The earliest trade route in the world was known as the "Amber Route." It crossed Europe in the Stone Age, earlier than 2000 B. C. and was used to carry amber from the northern countries to Greece.

The Neerith Bridge Club met for their fortnightly session Wednesday evening, when Mrs. Harold Pope was a gracious hostess for a most delightful evening at her home in Bloomingburg.

The evening was gaily spent, with the lovely home attractive with numerous bouquets of mixed garden flowers.

A delicious collation was served at the small tables at the close of the evening.

High score awards were presented to Mrs. Edgar McFadden, and Miss Amelia Pensyl.

Besides the prize winners, and two guests, Mrs. Marilyn Riley and Mrs. Gilbert Biddle, the members enjoying the evening were Miss Golda Cummings, Mrs. Clovis Graves, Mrs. Robert Foster, Mrs. Eloise Johnson, Miss Ilo Larrimer, Mrs. Clyde Cramer and Mrs. Mary Ellen Blackburn.

Springfield Dinner Party

An annual get-together anniversary covered dish supper was enjoyed by 73 relatives and friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Campbell of Broadmoor Blvd. Springfield, on Wednesday evening. The spacious home was an ideal setting for the affair, with bouquets of sweetpeas in effective arrangement throughout the large, adjoining rooms. The supper was served buffet style from the dining table. There was everything in the way of delicious viands arranged on the table, and everyone was helped to generous servings of the abundance of good food. The supper hour was prolonged in its pleasure.

Informal visiting and an evening of relaxing in the comforts of the lovely home were greatly enjoyed. Those present from here were Mr. and Mrs. Lon E. Stevenson and daughter, Mrs. Helen K. Barger.

Betrothal and Approaching Marriage of Virginia Wilson Announced at Lovely Tea

Washington Country Club Is Setting for Beautiful Affair; Wedding To Be Event

Of June 28

Mrs. Robert Edge was a most charming hostess on Wednesday afternoon, honoring Miss Virginia Wilson, whose marriage to Mr. Leo Whiteside will be an event of the near future, with a beautiful tea and announcement party at the Washington Country Club, to which she had invited fifty of Miss Wilson's intimate friends.

Miss Wilson is a former pupil of Mrs. Edge, who was a teacher in the Cherry Hill school. The spacious lounge of the Country Club was aglow with the radiance of hospitality and it had been transformed into a bower of loveliness with tall baskets of ascension lilies, delphinium, coral bells, snapdragons, coreopsis, cala lilies, daisies, feverfew, larkspur and fern, over which a riot of roses in many colors wafted a fragrance and a magical touch of a fairyland.

A satin embossed white linen cloth covered a long tea table which was centered by an immense table mirror framed in fern and white lilies, on which stood a miniature bride and groom in typical bridal array.

Tall pink candles in silver holders which were tied with immense bows of white chiffon, sentinelled each end of the table and lent a soft radiance to the splendid silver tea service and two silver bowls filled with sweet peas.

The daintiest of tea delicacies and confections prepared by the club hostess, Mrs. Hazel Devins, were dispensed from this beautiful table.

Mrs. Frank Jackson and Mrs. Marguerite Powell poured early in the afternoon, and Miss Edith Wilson and Miss Marion Christopher, of Bucyrus.

Other guests were Mrs. Leonard Korn, Mrs. C. G. Hayes, Mrs. Walter O'Brien, Mrs. G. B. Vance and Mrs. Gilbert C. Crouse.

The afternoon was most enjoyable, and the dessert course a most delicious and tempting one. The small tables had been arranged in the spacious living room of the home, and were prettily centered with bouquets of garden flowers.

FATAL TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS ARE OFF 25 PERCENT

Big Decrease in Fayette County Compared with Same Time in 1941

Due to decreased rate of speed and less traffic, the number of traffic deaths in Fayette County has dropped from eight up to this time last year, to two so far in 1942, and in the state, outside of municipalities the drop has been 25 percent or more according to H. G. Sours, director of the Ohio Department of Highways.

Deaths due to traffic accidents reached 23 in Fayette County last year, or approximately four times the average for the few years prior to 1941.

Records compiled by the Division of Traffic and Safety of the State Highway Department show that traffic fatalities on rural state highways totaled 184 for the first four months of this year compared to 235 for the corresponding period of last year.

Coincidental with this decrease in traffic deaths, a 12 percent reduction in volume of traffic on Ohio highways was recorded by the Ohio Highway Planning Survey for the first four months of 1942 against the first four months of 1941.

A record decrease of 52 percent in traffic fatalities on state highways outside municipalities occurred during April of this year, when traffic deaths numbered 30, compared to April of last year, when traffic fatalities totaled 63.

The April, 1942, death figure of 30 was lower than any previous April since the Division of Traffic and Safety began in 1934 to tabulate accidents on rural state highways outside municipalities averaged 42 as compared to the 30 deaths reported for April of this year.

The decrease in the volume of traffic on Ohio highways for April 1942 as against April, 1941, was 17 percent.

"This decrease in travel," said Highway Director Sours, "was undoubtedly attributable to the desire of motorists to conserve their tires. And as travel decreased, so did traffic deaths."

Sours pointed out, however, that the drop in traffic deaths was probably due to more than just the drop in travel, since the reduction in fatalities was so much greater than the reduction in traffic.

"So it would seem," he said, "that motorists are taking to heart the admonition of Governor John W. Bricker to budget their mileage as well as to drive no faster than 40 miles an hour and as a result are saving lives as well as tires."

GEORGE RAFT, PAT O'BRIEN IN A NEW FOUR-STAR HIT, 'BROADWAY' AT THE STATE THEATRE — 'FLYING CADETS' IS SECOND FEATURE

Edmund Lowe, William Gargan, Peggy Moran and Frank Albertson in a cloud-busting thriller, "Flying Cadets," a story of war-birds in training.

"Broadway," the film, is an exciting melodrama, both of story and the fabulous days of "the roaring '20s" when prohibition and violence marked it for historic notoriety. Arrayed in its cast is a brilliant acting personnel headed by George Raft and Pat O'Brien as co-stars, and including Janet Blair, Brod Crawford, Anne Gwynne, Marjorie Rambeau and a host of others.

500 Veterans of Foreign Wars Are Expected Here

SUNDAY PARADE TO BE FEATURE OF GATHERING

District Convention Will Bring Large Number To This City

Approximately 500 Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ladies Auxiliaries of the posts in the district, are expected to come to Washington C. H., Sunday for the third district convention.

As a result of the coming meeting, the O. E. Hardway Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, of which Howard W. Burnett is the commander, is making elaborate plans for entertaining the large number of visitors, who will come from Springfield, Columbus, London, Circleville, Chillicothe, Wilmington, Greenfield and many other surrounding points. Their session is to open early in the morning.

Leo Roberts, of Columbus, district commander, will preside over the various sessions of the convention and Mrs. Esta Fetter, Springfield, district president of the V. F. W. Auxiliary will conduct the business meetings of the Auxiliary.

One of the features of the business sessions will be the annual election of officers.

General business will feature the morning sessions, and a joint session of deep interest will be held in the afternoon. Registration starts at 8 A. M. at the GAR Hall and the business meeting will be held at 9:30, with the auxiliaries meeting in the Junior Hall at the same hour.

Election of officers is scheduled for 10:30 A. M. and adjournment for lunch at 11:30 A. M.

A second business session will be held at 12:30 P. M. and degree work is scheduled for 1:30 P. M., following which a joint session of the Posts and Auxiliaries will be held at 3 P. M.

A parade in which local patriotic organizations have been invited to participate, will take place at 4:30 P. M., details of the parade to be completed later.

Retreat will take place on the Courthouse lawn at 5 P. M., and the public is invited to be present for this impressive service.

WPB METHODS AND MEN HIT BY SENATE PROBERS; CHANGES ARE DEMANDED

atives now serving in the war production effort, the Senate committee said it believed that "the Guthrie case points to the conclusion that certain dollar-a-year men within the Bureau of Industry branches (of WPB) are unable to divorce themselves from their subconscious gravitation to their own industries."

Senators said these conclusions were based upon both public and closed hearings into charges made by Guthrie and others. Included were details and critical surveys of various industries.

The Senate conclusions differed widely from an earlier report by a House military affairs subcommittee which commended efforts of the dollar-a-year men and said Guthrie's charges lacked proof other than evidence of sharp differences of opinion among war production officials.

Philip D. Reed, chief of the W. P. B. Bureau of Industry Branches, was cited by the Senate committee as not having taken the necessary action to obtain the maximum conversion of private industry to war production in the shortest possible time.

Reed was Guthrie's immediate superior when Guthrie and his friends quit WPB, and the report said Reed was serving WPB "on a dollar-a-year basis, on leave from his position as chairman of the board of The General Electric Company from which company he is presently receiving a salary and bonus totaling $120,000 per year."

"The committee has not been impressed with Mr. Reed's ability or accomplishments," the report said.

WASHINGTON C. H. YOUTH HIGH IN CLASS AT OSU

The name of a Washington C. H. youth soon may be placed on a plaque in the Commerce Building at Ohio State University in accordance with a custom for giving recognition to students who have attained a stipulated degree of excellence.

Word has reached high school officials here that I. Charles Rhoads, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Rhoads, has been honored by Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary fraternity of the college of commerce of the university for standing highest in his class during his freshman year, 1941-1942.

POET'S CORNER

WEAR A SMILE

Are you some times sad and lonely, Do you think your friends are few?

Then the very first one you meet, Just smile and say how-dedo; And see how their face lights up, Their eyes will sparkle too; And you will catch a gleam of sunshine, For they will smile right back at you.

Then you will quite forget your troubles, All your clouds will roll away; And your day will be much brighter.

Since you gave a smile away, And see what a smile will do;

If you wear a smile for others, They will have a smile for you. —ALBERT C. VINCE

OHIO INDUSTRIAL AREA AROUND STEUBENVILLE PASSES BLACKOUT TEST

Steel and Wheeling Steel, nor from any across the broad Ohio in West Virginia save the one.

Active steel furnaces were activated successfully, but how this was accomplished was not disclosed.

The river itself, a source of some worry to defense officials, faintly reflected a very pale moon. Except for this obscure gleam, the river was not a telltale landmark. The moon also picked up faint outlines of homes but these, the pilots said, would not have been noticed from bombing altitude; and even at 3,000 feet you likely would not have identified them had you not known homes should be there.

The signal for dousing lights came at 9:58 o'clock just as planes bearing observers swept in; the all-clear followed at 10:23.

Trains were darkened as they went through the district, river boats pulled to shore, river lights and danger signals were turned low. For more than 15 minutes a row of billboards stood out like beacons in the northwest section of the city, but finally were blackened. The only incident reported was the smashing of a store sign in the downtown area after Civilian Defense police said they were unable to turn it off.

One of the greatest earthquakes in recorded history occurred in the Mississippi river valley 130 years ago.

WAR BOARD HERE GETTING BEHIND RUBBER DRIVE

Farmers Urged To Make Search for Scrap and Turn It Over

County USDA War Board Chairman, Harry Silcott, today urged Fayette County farmers to help keep the USA "rolling" by searching their farms for reclaimable rubber, and turning it in to the government at the nearest filling station.

President Roosevelt has named the county USDA War Boards to head the scrap rubber drive in rural areas. Members of the Fayette County board are meeting this week to decide ways and means of putting the drives over in Fayette County.

"All rubber may be turned in at any gasoline filling station," Silcott said, "thanks to the cooperation of the oil industry which has made available all its personnel and facilities for use as collection depots."

Silcott pointed out that upon success of the rubber collection drive hinges the President's decision as to whether or not gasoline rationing should be extended over all 48 states. Conservation of the nation's stockpile of rubber now in the hands of private automobile owners is one argument advanced for universal gas rationing.

Agriculture has a big stake in the success or failure of the rubber drive," Silcott asserted, "since the amount of reclaimable rubber that is collected will be a decisive factor in the rationing of rubber for agricultural purposes, such as the retreading and recapping of farmers' tires."

He stressed that neither filling stations nor the oil industry will make any profit on rubber purchased during the drive. Rubber delivered to the filling stations will be bought at the rate of 1 cent per pound. The oil industry will sell the rubber to the Rubber Reserve Company, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at the same rate.

Any receipts in excess of the purchase price paid by the filling stations will be turned over by the oil industry to the national headquarters of the USO, the army relief, navy relief, and the American Red Cross, Silcott announced.

Reclaimable rubber which has been classified as acceptable includes almost all types of rubber except battery boxes and their parts, and tire beads. The county War Board chairman requested that metal, wood, and leather be stripped from such as shoes and baby buggy tires, etc.

OPPOSITION IN NORWAY BREAKS NAZI PRESSURE

BERN, Switzerland, June 18—(AP)—Norwegian circles here said German pressure on Major Vidkun Quisling to recruit Norwegian labor for German arms industries had aroused so much antagonism that a new arrangement had to be substituted.

The Nazis, these sources said, now plan to withdraw from Norway all German labor engaged in construction of coastal defenses and replace them with Norwegians.

PRIORITIES A HARDSHIP? NO!

War Production Board orders seem to indicate that women's clothes will become somewhat skimpier, with restrictions on the amount of cloth that can go into a garment. Paris Housewives Wait for Meager Food Ration

After two years of Hitler domination, this picture made in Paris shows French housewives standing in line outside a dairy to receive their meager ration of food. Although the store advertises butter, cheese and eggs, there is none to be had by these women. The tins exhibited in the shop window are empty. The milkman carries away the empty milk cans which are placed there by order of the ruling Germans. (Central Press)

HELP 3 WAYS

YOUR COUNTRY —

By keeping its vital transportation system rolling.

YOUR BOYS IN ARMS —

By contributing to USO.

YOURSELF —

Indirectly by the above, directly by keeping your own car in operation.

You have two more days in which to collect your old tires, rubber hose and shoes, any scrap rubber, and bring it to your neighborhood gas station. If you give this scrap rubber free the proceeds of its sale go to the LOCAL USO FUND.

THE USO QUOTA FOR FAYETTE COUNTY IS $3800.

We need every dollar that we can raise to meet this goal. Do your part today, for your country, for your boys in service, and for yourself.

A BUSTED HOT WATER BOTTLE MAY HELP WIN THE WAR!

REMEMBER the old time ballad which says, "For the want of a rider a battle was lost?" Well, we're not going to lose this war, but a leaky hot water bottle may supply the extra ounce of scrap rubber that will more quickly give the Axis the axe.

Uncle Sam wants that old rubber right now!

Yes, the government wants every disused or worn out article made of rubber that can be sent to the nation's stock pile, and wants you to help get it there in a hurry.

Oil Industry is collecting it!

Starting June 15th, and continuing through June 30th, gasoline stations from coast to coast will help collect scrap rubber and will pay . . .

A penny a pound in spot cash for every pound contributed by you . . . so take all the old rubber you can collect to the nearest gas station today.

None of the oil companies will receive one penny profit for this service to the nation. Through the cooperation and efforts of thousands of dealers and gasoline company employees, the scrap rubber will be turned over to the government and will be paid for by Uncle Sam on the basis of $25 per ton (2000 pounds). The difference between the amount paid by the oil companies and the amount paid by the government has been pledged to the USO, Navy Relief, Army Relief and American Red Cross.

May help avert gasoline rationing in Central West

Since a shortage of rubber is considered the main reason for the threatened rationing of gasoline in the central states, this is one important way to do your part, and it may help to ward off the need for curtailment of this vital commodity.

YORK DOOD IT—Rudy York, Detroit first sacker, brings home a run during game with Chisox in Chicago. Fresh makes play.

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

(Wide World News Service) NEW YORK, June 18.—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds, here for a day's vacation will enjoy it more if the St. Louis Cardinals, here for a day's serious business, win the opener of their five-game series with Brooklyn.

The Reds swept a Bunker Hill day twin bill from Boston yesterday 4-2 and 4-3, making it nine straight over the Braves in two weeks. But it takes more than ability to thump Boston—loser

Both games in the softball leagues ended with long and medium scores Wednesday night at Wilson Field. The Presbyterians trampled the Methodists 12 to 6 and Cudahy's went down to defeat under Albers boys by a score of 16 to 0.

The first for the Presbyterians brought them 1 run while 4 of the Methodists crossed the plate. The second inning brought some changes in the score when the Methodists scored 1 run and the Presbyterians forged ahead and got 6. The Methodists were idle during the next two innings and the Presbyterians scored 5 more runs, one in the third and 4 in the fifth. During the sixth, the Methodists got another run and then both teams were through.

Shoemaker, of the Methodists, led the hitting end of the game with three hits and three times at bat.

The second game of the evening between two Industrial League teams, Cudahy's and Albers', brought another lopsided score. Cudahy's were "on the bench" all the way through, getting a hit now and then while Albers' blasted in a flock of runs. Chase went all the way on the mound for Albers' and allowed only 4 runs. Albers' scored 3 runs in the first, 1 in the third, 5 in the fourth, 5 in the sixth and 2 in the seventh, their last. Chase and Denney of Albers' led the hitting with 3 hits and 4 times at bat. Denney had a triple, double and a single and Chase had 3 singles.

One game will be played Thursday night in the Industrial League between two granges, Madison Mills and Forest Shade. The game will begin at 8:30 P. M. and the admission is 6c.

WOOL TO BE 'BLENDED'
UNDER NEW OPA ORDER

WASHINGTON, June 18—(P) The Office of Price Administration today issued a price ceiling order on woolen and worsted apparel fabrics which provides a price premium to induce manufacturers to blend at least 25 percent of cotton or rayon in the materials.

The OPA action was seen as a move to assist the War Production Board in its efforts, pressed over a period of months, to induce mills to turn out blended instead of all-wool fabrics for men's clothing.

many fronts. To guard against British raids in the west (but lately with surprisingly weak forces); to aid the Italians over the Mediterranean and Libya (there have been signs the proportion of Nazi aircraft in these operations was reduced considerably in recent months); to support their troops on the vast Russian front (even here there have been few attacks in force, and this week's Nazi-announced raid on Moscow was the first on the capital for many weeks).

Two-Reason Theory
Expert opinion attributes the Germans' comparatively minor air activity to two reasons: The Nazis have to conserve their supplies of lubricating oil for their planes; the air force therefore will not be thrown into any major operation, with its additional heavy drain on airmen and equipment, until Hitler has decided where the Army will strike its next blow.

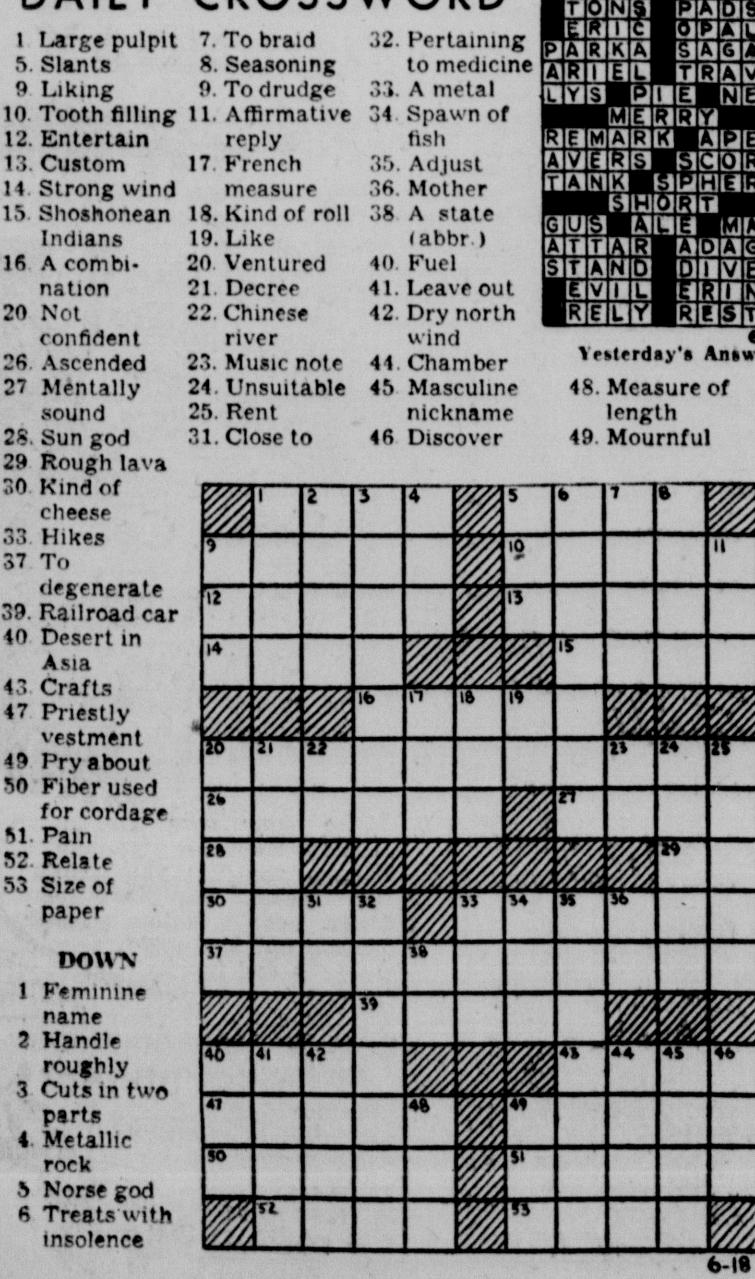

From those points you can build up this sequence:

1. The German air force cannot afford to waste fuel;
2. If it is called on for action in which large stocks of fuel are to be used, the natural goal of such an action would be acquisition of fresh supplies;
3. The most logical point major air attack, therefore, is in support of the U. S. Army air forces squadrons now stationed in Britain, could help change Nazi strategy.

Not Likely Weaker
There is little reason to believe that Germany's air force has been weakened to any appreciable extent in recent months. There is ample justification for the belief that, both in machines and in the men to fly and repair them, it has been strengthened considerably.

Furthermore, with their interior lines of communications, the Nazis can concentrate their air force in any chosen sector within the space of a few days. They can do so, that is, at least in theory.

Developments of recent weeks may prevent them from doing so.

The RAF's mass bombing attacks on German industrial centers, soon to have the further support of the U. S. Army air forces squadrons now stationed in Britain, could help change Nazi strategy.

And the Russians themselves have been bolstered in past months as U. S. and British-made equipment was rushed in from the U. S. and Britain.

The Russians are, per custom, north and south. The British have delivered considerable numbers of their hurricane fighters, while at least one Soviet squadron is flying American-made Aracobs.

Machine Shop Training Is To Be Offered Here

DAYTIME CLASS FOR WOMEN IS TO BE INCLUDED

Classes for Men To Be Held At Night—Aviation Course Continues

Special courses of training in general machine shop work are to be inaugurated in the Washington C. H. High School building July 1, A. B. Murray, the superintendent of the city schools, announced unexpectedly Thursday.

Although such a course of training had been contemplated for some time it was not generally expected that it would be offered so soon, and as a consequence, the announcement came as somewhat of a surprise except to those who have been closely associated with developments in training workers for war industries.

Aviation Classes Continue

It was made plain by the superintendent that the new courses would be in addition to night classes now being given in aviation mechanics. These classes, he said, not only would be continued but might possibly be expanded, if the interest warrants, to daytime classes through the summer vacation.

There will be no conflict between the two courses, Supt. Murray declared, and explained that the aviation mechanic classes, inaugurated last January, are held in what was the gymnasium of the old school building before it was remodeled, while the machine shop courses will be held in the school's auto mechanics department shops.

Training for Women

Three and possibly more classes in machine shop training are contemplated, Supt. Murray revealed. And, the courses are to be available to both men and women. The classes for the men are to be held at night, one from 6 P. M. until midnight and the other from midnight until 6 A. M. five nights a week. The classes for the women are to be held in the daytime for the same number of hours—6 a day. The course lasts 12 weeks.

The inclusion of classes for women admittedly was a recent development and, while they are regarded as having unusual significance, there was no amplification of the bare announcement that they would be offered.

The machine shop training is to include, Supt. Murray said, instruction in the operation of lathes, drill presses, shapers, milling machinery, drill grinders, drills and tapping machines among other things.

Significant Statement

It was said significantly that "in case of need in a local industry these trainees would meet the requirements for the jobs here as well as in surrounding cities."

Charles Dunton, manager of the United States Employment Service office here, East Market Street, is now taking applications for training in both the courses in aviation mechanics and machine shop for both men and women.

Dunton shed some light on the inclusion of the course for women when he said there is a shortage of women, as well as men, capable of operating machines. He said the situation was statewide.

There is no cost for the instruction, Supt. Murray and Dunton emphasized. The expense for the machinery and other equipment, they explained,

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR ELMER L. TRACEY

Largely attended funeral rites for Elmer L. Tracey were held at the Cox and Parrett Funeral Home, Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of Grace Methodist Church.

There was a wealth of beautiful flowers and these were carried for by Mrs. Robert Helfrich, Mrs. Imogene Bush, Mrs. Jennie Todhunter and Mrs. C. F. McConaughay.

Burial was made in the Sabina Cemetery.

The pallbearers were Edgar Snyder, Oscar Wilke, Arthur French, Alfred Brown, Howard Bingman and Jesse Ellis.

Those from a distance attending the services included:

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Tobin, Jamestown; Mrs. Wade Morlat, Mrs. Naomi Jones and Mrs. Charles Joice, Middletown; Mrs. Charles Ross, Lebanon; Mrs. Belle Millikan, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoppes, Good Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Spathe, Leslie Spathe, Jr. and Carl Spathe, Mason; Mrs. Doris Rhoads and son, Ray, and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Sheley and son, Charles, of Columbus.

is met by the Federal government, thus putting the courses definitely in the Federal war production program.

Staff Is Enlarged

The expansion of the industrial training courses has made necessary an expansion of the staff of instructors. Already D. E. Petty has been employed.

Supt. Murray disclosed for the first time Thursday. He has been here for several weeks setting up the new government-purchased equipment in the auto mechanics building shop of the high school, he said. O. M. Reigel and Warren R. Root, members of the regular high school faculty, who have been conducting the classes in aviation mechanics, will continue as key men in the expanded program, Supt. Murray said.

Men have been going right from the aviation mechanics classes into warplane factories as rapidly as their training was completed, some even before finishing the regular course, the records show. The demand for these craftsmen has not diminished, it was said, and the need for trained machine shop artisans is expected to be equally as great.

Supt. Murray intimated that the course offered in the high school here with government support are considered as models throughout the state and that the government is "pioneering" a new field of training away from the industrial centers with them. Other informed sources say this may be indicative of a trend to "decentralize" the country's war industries and that trend may carry over after the war is won and normal peacetime production is resumed.

The services Thursday night will start at 8 P. M. and there will be all day services Sunday, featured by a basket dinner.

FOUR BOY SCOUTS DELIVER WARNINGS

Pamphlets Tells What To Do In Air Raids

Four Boy Scouts who are deeply interested in war work, have completed the task of delivering pamphlets throughout the city, giving notice to the public regarding air raid warnings if they should come here, and what to do.

These notices describe the signals to be given and contain information for guidance of the public generally in case of a raid.

All citizens are asked to keep the pamphlets, and to read them carefully, so that they will know just what to do in an emergency such as caused by an air raid.

The Boy Scouts who delivered the pamphlets are Wilton Yates, Joe Budnek, Charles Meriweather and Dick Sheidler.

MRS. MARY A. GLAZE FUNERAL SERVICES

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary A. Glaze were held at St. Colman's Church, Wednesday at 9:30 A. M. with requiem high mass with Father Rodgers as celebrant of the mass.

Miss Margaret McDonald was at the organ, and the mass was sung by Mrs. Richard Jacobs and Francis Malloy. Mr. Malloy sang the solo "Ave Verum" and Mrs. Jacobs the solo "Veni Jesu."
